ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The author would like to express her profound and sincere gratitude to her supervisor, Mr. Phrek Gypmantisiri, for his valuable guidance, encouragement and many suggestions in the whole process of the study that enabled her to complete this thesis.

It is also a pleasure to acknowledge the help of her committee members, Dr. Methi Ekasingh, Dr. Benchaphun Shinawatra and Dr. Soonthorn Buranawiriyakul, for their valuable advice which had made her thesis more readable and sensible Deepest appreciation, gratitude and respect are also due to Mr. Prom and Mrs. Khumsuk Taepa, the participant farmers from Ban Huay Som Sook for their help. The author also learned a lot from their indigenous knowledge.

Thanks are also extended to her class mates: Wawta, Zhang, Zhong, Johan, Ellen, Anang and Thongma including De and Cheng for giving their valuable ideas, suggestions and inspiration. The author appreciated for their friendly behaviour and enjoyed studying with them.

This research can not be conducted without financial support. So, her special gratitudes are also given to her donor, the Winrock International.
