ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The journey to attain my master degree has come to an end. It is my pleasure to express my gratitude to all who supported me and were involved in one way or the other in this learning process. After four year I finally completed this thesis. Many people have been, sometimes without knowing, of great support for me during this time.

First and foremost, I would like to express my heart-felt gratitude to my esteemed supervisors Asst. Prof. Dr. Kamol Ngamsomsuke, Dr. Budsara Limnirankul, Ajarn Phrek Gypmantasiri and Assoc. Prof. Dr. Benchaphan Ekasingh for their critical and always inspiring and challenging question and suggestions to develop and improve my graduate research. They has been gentle in inspiring me, patient in hearing my intellectual preoccupations, modest in learning with me and especially kind in giving their valuable time for discussion and exchange.

Second, it gives me a pleasure to express my indebtedness to Ajarn Suvan Bongbud, Ajarn Vimonrat Bongbud who agreed to be interviewed and to furnish valuable information for the study. Similarity, my sincere thanks to all the responds of the farmer groups in Dong San village who provided valuable information concerning my research queries and allowed me to participate in their internal discussions. I am especially grateful to many participants who contributed throughout the reflective feedback workshops.

Doing my Msc in Chiang Mai University has given me the opportunity to gain insight in new innovative approaches as well as know many people with whom I shared experiences, frustrations and hope. This has been a great time and grateful to University and to MCC staff for their administrative help. To my colleagues, the AGS community of practice, my sincere gratitude for their permanent disposition to listen my Msc journey.

I must also thanks Milles Walton and PMO for editing the English language.

All in all, I can not imagine a better end to my degree!

I express particular thanks to Multiple Cropping Center, the Rockefeller Foundation – Scholarships Program 2006 – that financially supported my graduate study and research work presented here. I am very grateful for the opportunity they offered me to successfully accomplish my graduate studies in Agricultural Systems Program of Multiple Cropping Centre of Chiang Mai University.

Friends and extended family, I thank you for the support you have given me. Special thanks go to my Parents, my Grandma and my younger sister for giving me many reasons to not fail when I felt the task too hard to accomplish. Ko Zaw Wan, P' Yai (Chorpaka Muangsuk), P' Nim (Naruamon Thinnarach) and P' Tor (Manitchara Thongnoi) with your tenacity and examples you always encourage me to overcome the obstacles in my life and to not despair in front of difficulty. Last but by no means least; my most heartfelt thanks go to “Someone”, who always believes in me.
