

Thesis Title	Community Responses to Health Service Reorientation of Somdhejphajaotaksinmaharaj Hospital
Author	Mrs. Pailin Jaree
M.Ed.	Health Promotion
Examining Committee	Assoc. Prof. Anek	Changnoi	Chairman
	Assoc. Prof. Manus	Yodcome	Member
	Assoc. Prof. Dr.Kittiporn	Punyapinyophol	Member

Abstract

The purposes of this study were 1) to study community responses to perception, expectation and satisfaction by family practice 2) to study the condition for client were selected by family practice. The subjects were 400cases in ThumbonHuadiat AmphurMuang, Tak Provimce ; selected by Stratified random sampling. The instruments was questionairs. The reliability of the instrument after tested by Cronbach's Coeffiency, that was found to the perception and expectation were 0.93, satisfaction and condition for client were selected by family practice was 0.80. The statistics used for data analysis include the percent, mend and standard diviation.

The research finding were as follows :

1. Huadiat community has responded to perception, expectation and satisfaction by family practice :

1.1 The client were used to get service by family practice have perception more than the client were not used to get service family practice.

1.2 The client were used to get service have expectation to family practice in the level of median to maximum ; On the other hand, the client were not used to get service family practice in the level of maximum.

1.3 The client were used to get service have satisfaction to family practice.

2. The condition for client were selected by family practice, these were the distance, medical cost and characteristic of medical team.