ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am extremely grateful to Dr. Udom Boonayathap who was my advisor, for his continued interest and encouragement in the present study. I wish to acknowledge the considerable kindness of Assistant Professor Muengdee Teja-Intr, Head of Department of Physiology, Faculty of Medicine, Chiang Mai University, for the use of the facilities in the department. I am also indebted to all members of the Central Laboratory Division, Department of Clinical Chemistry, Faculty of Associated Medical Sciences, Chiang Mai University, for permitting me to perform the chemical analysis. Finally, I would like to express my sincere thanks to Mrs. Chintana Sapavajitara for preparation of the illustrations.

This study was supported in part by the National Research Council.
