Acknowledgements

Development and completion of this thesis and my graduate study were possible only with enormous support and contribution from the people and institutions in both Thailand and Vietnam.

My deepest thanks and profound appreciation go to lecturer Laxmi Worachai, my academic supervisor as well as the chairperson of the thesis examining committee for her invaluable guidance and support of the graduate study.

I would like to express my special thanks and appreciation to the Thesis Examining Committee, Lecturer Phrek Gypmantasiri, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Benchaphun Ekasingh, and Lect. Dr. Kamol Ngamsomsuke for their constructive suggestions.

Specially thanks is given to Dr. Terry Rambo, who strongly encouraged me towards my intention for further study and supported me all the time during my studies. I also thank him for editing my thesis and giving me valuable advice and suggestions for my thesis.

I am grateful to the Ford Foundation and the Multiple Cropping Center, Chiang Mai University for granting scholarship.

The acknowledgement goes to the staff of Agriculture System Programme who have facilitated and equipped the tools and materials during study. Especially thanks to Miss Om, who helped us for all the matters relating to the administrative affairs and always gave us her warm regards with a nice smile.

Special thanks are extended to the staff of both CRES and CARE, who have helped me in data collection in Vietnam. Special recognition goes to Mr. Tran Chi Trung, Miss Trinh Khanh Chi and Miss Le Thu Thanh. Thanks also goes to the Tay people in Tat hamlet, whose kindness, and patience help answer many questions. The research would not be successful without their participation.

All my MCC friends have shown their genuine kindness and friendship during my study. Particularly, I had received an amount of supports in both spiritual and material forms finance from my Vietnamese friends both from MCC and RCSD. I wish to express my thanks to Shayne Hasegawa, my friend in Hawaii, who helped me correct English grammar. I also would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge my thanks to all of overseas Vietnamese people in Chiang Mai for their support whilst I am studying in Chiang Mai, special thanks to Bac Van, Bac Quynh, and Bac Chinh.

Finally, high pleasure is due to my mother and siblings for all the love, encouragement, and support throughout the study period. And Mr. Ha Thuc Vien, my special friend, deserves my heartfelt thanks for all the support and love which he has given me during I am studying in Chiang Mai.
