ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The author wishes to express deepest gratitude to her supervisor Prof. Dr. Songsak Sriboonchitta, professor and former Dean of Faculty of Economics, Chiang Mai University. The author has been tremendously benefited from his inspiring guidance and precious inputs through my Ph.D. program in Chiang Mai University. And if not for his long lasting effort and generous help, the author will not have chance to pursue her Ph.D. study in Chiang Mai University.

The author wishes to express her deep gratitude to the members of her supervisor committee, who give her helpful advice and help her to move on. They are: Professor Hung T. Nguyen, Professor Berlin Wu, Doctor Chaiwat Nimanussornkul and Doctor Anasree Chaiwan.

The author is especially grateful to Prof. Peter Calkins for his encouragement, understanding and stimulating discussions and insightful suggestions.

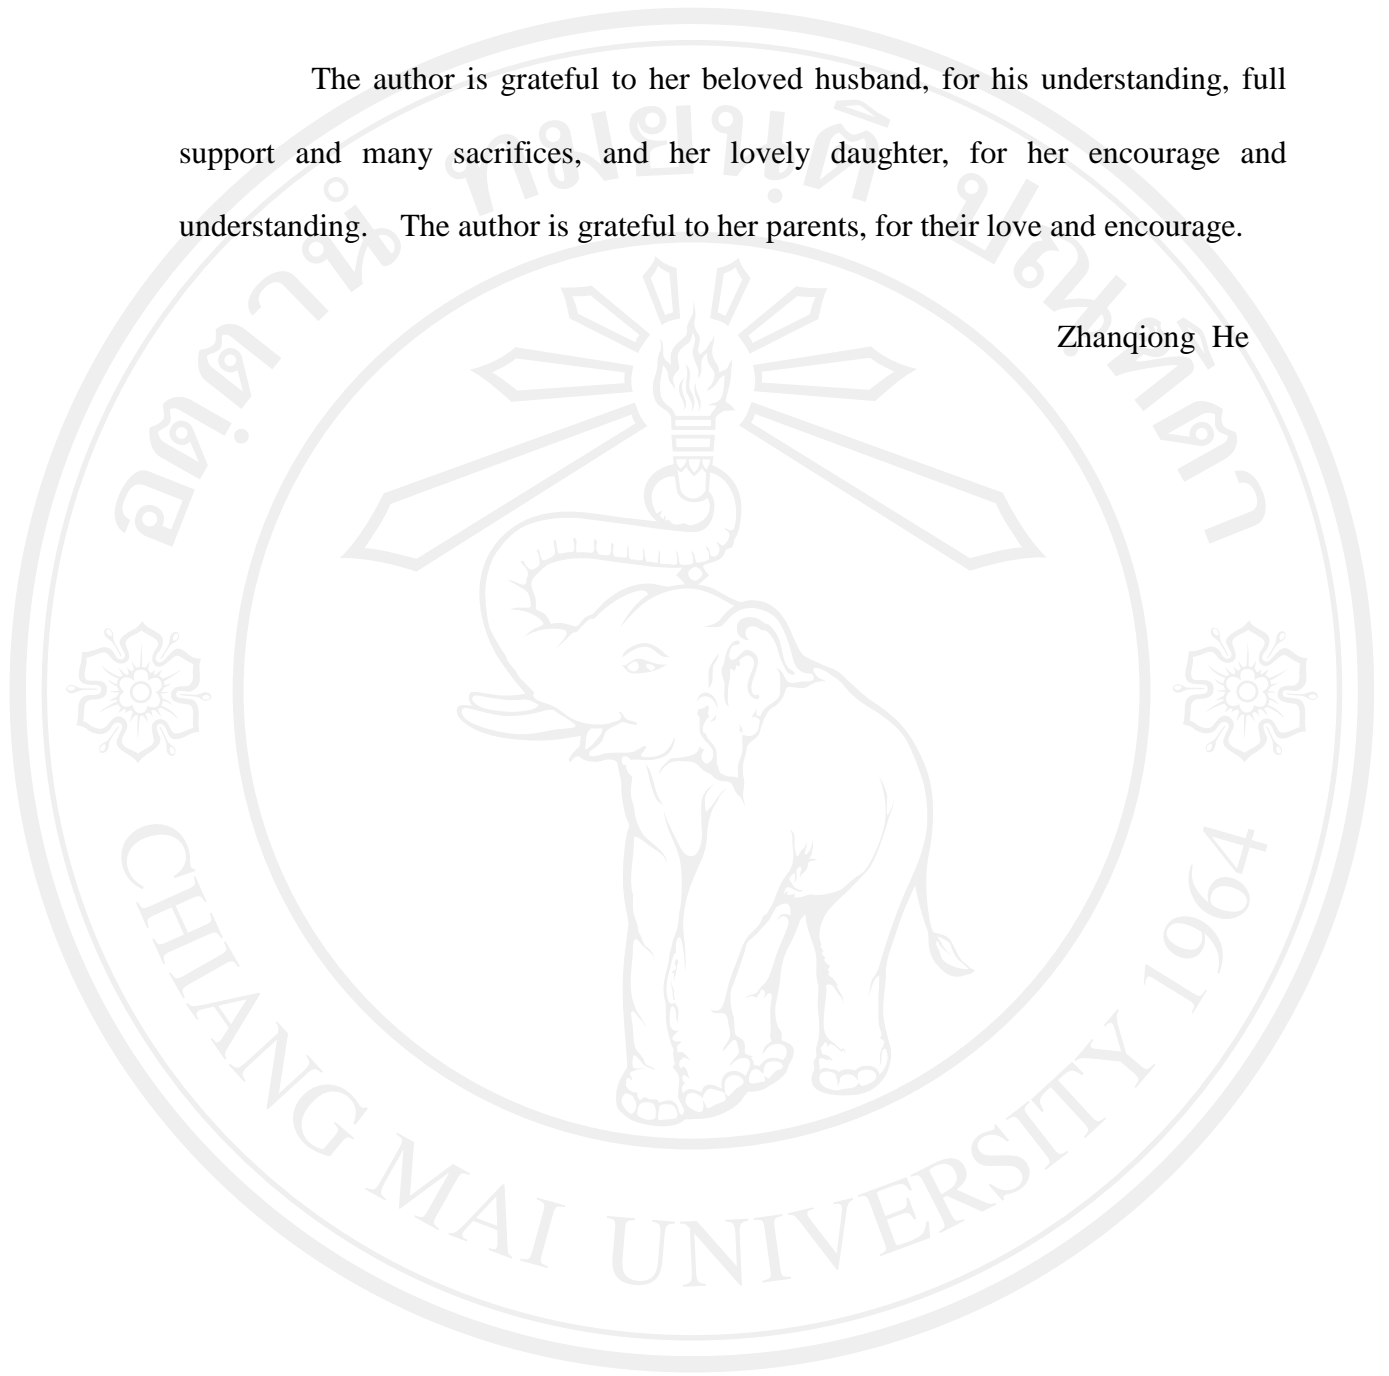

Special thanks to the excellent faculty and staff at the Faculty of Economics, Chiang Mai University. In particular, the author would like to thank Ms Siriporn, Ms Napasorn, Ms Kulcharee Kritsadathikarnkul, Ms Kanitta Archaphet, for their help and assistance during her graduate study.

Many thanks to all her classmates, their friendship, help and support, they have made the author's study in Thailand very enjoyable.

The author sincerely thanks Kunming University of Science and Technology, for its generous and continuous financial, valuable time support during the past 5 years, which enable me to concentrate on my research.

The author is grateful to her beloved husband, for his understanding, full support and many sacrifices, and her lovely daughter, for her encourage and understanding. The author is grateful to her parents, for their love and encourage.
